ONLY COOLIDGE MEN ON GUARD

Will Control Convention From Start to Finish.

NO PLACES FOR INSURGENTS

All Officials of Republican National Committee Will Be Close Friends of the President—Senator McKinley to Head Credentials Committee. Nephew of Secretary Mellon May Be Next Treasurer of Committee.

Cleveland, June 7.—Political observers here say that the Republican national convention next week will be a Coolidge meeting from start to finish.

The program has the sanction of the white house. The resolutions committee, which will draft the party declaration of principles, will be controlled by supporters of the president. The Wisconsin insurgents will submit a substitute platform, but it will be discarded by the convention. William M. Butler, national committeeman from Massachusetts, who is to succeed John T. Adams as national chairman, is a Coolidge man, and other officials of the national committee will be friends of the president.

Official announcement was made of the selection of Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois as chairman of the committee on credentials. McKinley belongs to the conservative group of senators. He supported the Mellon tax plan and to sustain the bonus bill over the veto.

William Mellon, Pittsburgh banker, nephew of Andrew Mellon, probably will be named treasurer of the national Republican committee, according to reports.

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Louisville, Ky., was named vice chairman of the Republican national committee to succeed Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, O., who resigned to run for congress. Mrs. Hert is the widow of "Toke" Hert, formerly a well known Republican figure.

Possibilities for the vice presidential nomination include Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, and Senator William E. Borah. It is said that President Coolidge is continuing his fight to break down Mr. Hoover's reluctance to take second place on the ticket.

Fights by rival Republican factions from Arkansas, Tennessee and Texas for delegate seats at the convention came before the Republican national committee for decision. The Tennessee fight was settled by both sets of delegates being given half a vote each and seats in the convention.

Attempts may be made to carry the Georgia fight to the floor of the convention. The J. L. Phillips faction, which was defeated by Colonel Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro leader of the old line organization, will at least file its appeal with the credentials committee.

There will be 2,218 delegates and alternates in the convention.

National Committeeman R. B. Creager of Texas announced that he will demand that a declaration against the Ku Klux Klan be made by the Republican national resolutions committee. If he is unsuccessful, he declared, he will carry his fight to the convention floor. The plank would condemn associations based on racial or religious prejudices and formation of any kind of secret political society in the United States, Mr. Creager said.

Mellon Denies Charges.

Washington, June 7.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in a letter to the senate Daugherty committee denied all charges made against him by Gaston B. Means. Mellon declared Means' account of an alleged agreement with Red Shelton of New York, whereby whisky permits were to have been issued by Mellon in return for contributions to the Republican national committee, was untrue.

To Manage White's Campaign.

Columbus, June 7.—Hugh S. Huntington, Columbus attorney, will manage the campaign of James A. White, former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Headquarters for the campaign have been opened in the Rowlands buildings. Mr. Huntington successfully managed the charter campaign in Columbus in 1914.

American Killed in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., June 7.—It is reported here that Charles F. Sturtevant, 40, of Utah, superintendent of the El Marito mines in Sonora, was slain by bandits.

PROF. J. H. BREASTED

Holds Chair of Oriental History at Chicago University.

Professor Breasted had much to do with recent explorations in Egypt.

WOMAN CONVICTED

Charged With Poisoning the Husband of Another.

Cleveland, June 7.—A jury in Judge Frank Phillips' court here rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree with recommendation for mercy against Mrs. Emma Colavito, 25, charged with poisoning Marino Costanzo in February, 1920. At the time of Costanzo's death it was believed he died of acute alcoholism. During the winter his wife made an alleged confession to detectives, implicating Mrs. Colavito in a poisoning plot. Mrs. Colavito was acquitted of poisoning Dan Kaber, Lakewood publisher, a few years ago.

Mrs. Colavito is the second to be tried for the death of Costanzo. His wife, Mrs. Fannie Costanzo was tried only a short time ago and freed of the charge on an instructed verdict. Mrs. Costanzo and Mrs. Colavito were indicted jointly for the crime.

Jury Free Woman.

Cleveland, June 7.—Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, divorcee, accused of the murder of Walter Law on March 12, was acquitted by a jury. Law's body was found in Mrs. Upton's apartment, and police who traced her through the license number found blood-soaked garments in her apartment. When arrested she told a story of having flipped a coin with Law to see which should take a shot at the other. Later she said she was "so drunk she didn't remember" whether she shot him or not.

TWO MEASURES BEFORE SOLONS

Final Effort Made for Farm Relief Legislation.

SOLONS TO ADJOURN TONIGHT

No Serious Opposition Encountered by LaFollette's Resolution to Provide Publicity For Campaign Expenditures—Important Issues to Die With Present Session—Features of the Closing Hours.

Washington, June 7.—Two new farm relief measures were reported to the senate for action before adjournment tonight.

One by Senator Bursum (Rep., N. M.) would pay an export bounty of 35 cents a bushel on wheat. This bill would cost the government $5,000,000, but would increase farm values $300,000,000. The other, by Senator Curtis (Rep., Kan.), would create a private corporation to accelerate export shipments of farm products. The bill carried an appropriation of $10,000,000 to finance the corporation.

Both measures were favorably reported by the senate agricultural committee.

Senator LaFollette called up his resolution to provide publicity for campaign expenditures in the coming presidential campaign. Under this resolution a committee of five senators would be empowered to sit all during the recess of congress to see that complete information regarding expenditures comes to public attention. There was no serious opposition to it, as it does not regulate contributions, merely providing for a constant scrutiny. Regulation is provided in the Cable bill rider hitched to the postal salaries increase bill, which has been approved by both houses. This limits senatorial candidates' expenditures to $10,000 and house aspirants to $2,500. It was adopted in place of the Borah rider for simple publicity.

Important issues, such as world coal, railroad labor board abolition and Muscle Shoals, are now completely and finally in the discard.

The naval cruiser appropriation bill, carrying $150,000,000, passed the senate while the insurgent group was out of the chamber.

Congress finally passed the bill liberalizing the laws with respect to the care and treatment of veterans of the world war and the bill now goes to the president for his approval.

The act adds about $35,000,000 to the cost in compensation to dependents of world war veterans by increasing pay to widows and orphans of those who have died and care for the blind and disabled of those who remain in the various institutions.

The $200,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill carrying funds for the soldier bonus and a $10,000,000 amendment for income tax refunds was passed by the senate, which also disposed of the naval modernization bill, designed to bring the American sea forces up to the 5-5-3 ratio agreed upon at the Washington arms conference. This measure now goes to the president.

TRESEMANN SPEAKS

Laws Reparations Plan Held the Salvation of Germany.

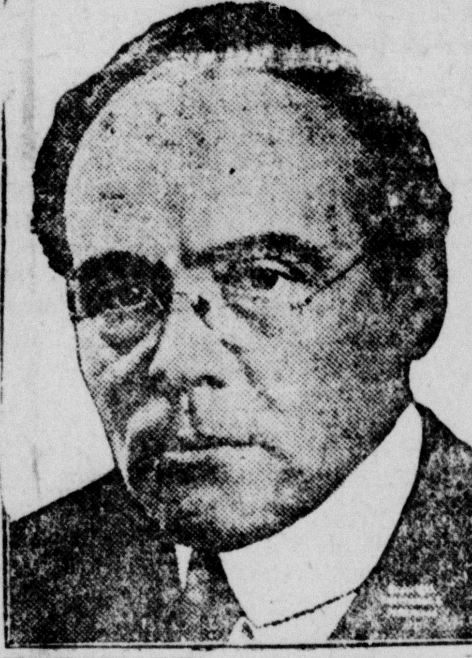

Berlin, June 7.—In a speech in the reichstag Foreign Secretary Gustav Stresemann declared that acceptance of the Dawes reparations plan means not only the salvation of Germany, but a relaxation of political tension throughout the world. In urging acceptance of the Dawes plan, Stresemann declared it would save the Rhineland from "anarchy and chaos." "The Dawes report is an epoch-making document in world history and the history of economics," said the foreign secretary. "The Dawes plan will shift the reparations question from an atmosphere of brutal force towards an atmosphere of economic reasoning by equals. It is a downright condemnation of the Ruhr invasion and destroys the lie that Germany is unwilling to pay."

Declarations Filed.

Columbus, June 7.—Former State Librarian John Henry Newman filed for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, an office which he sought two years ago. W. D. Fulton, who served one term as secretary of state, took out papers to file for the Democratic nomination for congress from the Twelfth district. Former Congressman Henry I. Emerson of Cleveland filed for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Pharmacists to Meet.

Columbus, June 7.—Recommendations regarding pharmaceutical education in Ohio and reports on national and state legislation and drug adulteration will be among the important matters to be given consideration by the Ohio State Pharmaceutical association at its annual meeting at Cedar Point July 14-17. An elaborate program for the meeting is being prepared by President W. L. Whelton of Akron and Secretary Theodore D. Wetterstroehme of Columbus. It is expected that 1,000 persons will be in attendance at the convention.

Three Fatally Hurt.

Steubenville, O., June 7.—Three persons were probably fatally injured when a sightseeing airplane fell here. The injured are: Everett Fletcher, 29, Stone, Ky., pilot; Hazel Snyder, 23, Steubenville, and Mervin Potts, East Springfield, O. Fletcher was giving passengers flights from the hilltop overlooking the city. The plane came in contact with high tension wires.

Car Companies Sold.

Dayton, O., June 7.—According to reports received here from Philadelphia, sale of the Springfield Street Railway company of Dayton has been made by the American Electric Power company of Philadelphia to the American Gas and Electric company of the same city. The amount involved was not learned.

Mediator Named.

Cleveland, June 7.—The streetcar men's union will accept City Manager W. R. Hopkins as the mediator in the arbitration controversy between the union and the Cleveland Railway company. Hopkins was suggested as a mediator by Mayor Townes. The arbitration board boosted pay 12 per cent for the men.

Must Continue Service.

Columbus, June 7.—The public utilities commission ordered he Pennsylvania Railroad company to continue to maintain its existing daily passenger service on its line between Columbus and Sandusky. The company had proposed to discontinue one of its daily passenger trains between the two cities.

Fighting Flea Epidemic.

Yorkville, O., June 7.—An emergency hospital is being established here to care for the 130 patients suffering from influenza. John Manaris, 32, confectioner, was the first victim. He was found dead in bed. State health department officials have taken charge of the situation.

Mrs. Upton Would Go to Congress.

Cleveland, June 7.—Announcement was made from women's headquarters here that Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton will be a candidate for election to congress from her home district, Warren, O. Mrs. Upton resigned as vice chairman of the Republican national committee.

Auto Turns Somersault.

Akron, O., June 7.—Louise Wetzel, 17, is in a hospital here as a result of an accident when the automobile in which she was riding turned a complete somersault. Miss Wetzel's back is said to have been broken. She resides in Cleveland. Her companions escaped injury.

Field Strawn With Dead.

London, June 7.—Dispatches from Rome state that the battlefields before Tirana, the Albanian capital, are strewn with dead, the casualties exceeding 1,000. The Albanian nationalist revolution and drive for the capital is being carried on with desperate fighting, reports say. The nationalists are accused of capturing 50 government soldiers, lining them up and executing them.

EXPECTS SPEEDY CONVICTION

State's Attorney Says His Case Looks "Airtight."

TO CALL MANY WITNESSES

Eleven Counts in Murder Indictment and Sixteen Counts in the Kidnaping Charge Against Leopold and Loeb, the Slayers of Robert Franks, Chicago School Boy—State's Attorney's Comment.

Chicago, June 7.—Indictment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb followed presentation of testimony by 71 witnesses before the grand jury. For the first time since he has been in office, State's Attorney Crowe took personal charge of the examination of witnesses.

The indictments were returned in open court today and formally charge Leopold and Loeb with kidnaping Robert Franks, 14, for ransom and with the actual murder of the youth. Both carry death penalties.

In an effort to destroy any possibility of the cases being thrown out of court because of faulty indictment, the grand jury returned 11 counts in the murder indictment and 16 counts in the kidnaping charge.

The murder counts charge Leopold and Loeb with slaying Franks by striking him with a chisel or club, by smothering him with hand or cloth gag, by poison, by combinations of these instruments and by "violent means inflicting mortal wounds." All 16 kidnaping counts charge the pair with holding Franks for ransom, each being worded slightly differently.

Although looked upon as a certainty and a mere formality ever since Leopold and Loeb confessed, the indictments represent the actual start of the state's effort to convict and hang the two young intellectuals, who, "just for the fun of it," they said, murdered young Franks and attempted to collect $10,000 ransom from his father. The boys now must stand trial on the charges.

Crowe called every available witness, abandoning the usual custom of saving certain "star" witnesses to spring as surprises when the actual trial starts. "Our case looks airtight," Crowe said. "We ought to get a speedy conviction and a just verdict can only be one that will lead to the hanging of these two guilty youths."

The two boys, bitter toward each other since the day they confessed, have finally "made up." It was Loeb, softer and more repentant, who first broke the long, bitter silence. He went up to Leopold and said: "What's the use? We're both in the same ride and so we might as well ride together, Babe." And the boys clasped hands firmly. Their friendship was renewed.

COMMUNISTS BLAMED

London's Subways Tied Up by Strike of Powerhouse Men.

London, June 7.—A strike tied up this city's subways. Powerhouse workers in approximately two-thirds of the city's plants overruled objections of organized labor leaders and walked out. Not more than 10 per cent of the subway trains which carry millions to and from work each day were in operation and street cars, buses and cabs were unable to handle the overflow. Many thousands tramped to work from the suburbs. The powerhouse workers demand an advance of 10 shillings a week and a minimum wage of three pounds a week, with one week's paid vacation each year. Labor leaders declared the strike unofficial and charged that communist influences were back of it.

Rainbows in Reunion.

Columbus, June 7.—The fifth annual reunion of Ohio veterans of the Rainbow division opened at the Southern hotel and will continue through Sunday morning. Attendance is expected to reach 500. Company reunions and committee meetings were held last night. Business meetings, with election of officers and a parade, were on today's program.

Small Boys Wrecked Train.

Worcester, Mass., June 7.—Michael Fercele, 6, and his playmate, Robert Doria, 7, told detectives how they placed rocks on the railroad track that wrecked the Twilight express, Boston to New York, Tuesday night, killing three persons, two engineers and a fireman. Because of their youth no charge will be placed against the boys.

PUTS IT UP TO SOLONS.

Commission Decides Against Construction of State Office Building.

Columbus, June 7.—The state building commission definitely decided against construction of any state office building under the existing enabling act and voted instead to defer action until the entire question can be resubmitted to the general assembly. The commission decided to limit its activities to securing data to be presented to the next legislature, with a view to having the legislators decide definitely what kind of a building should be erected and the site which should be acquired. Enabling act passed by the last legislature practically limited the building commission to build on the site of the old city hall here, which architects have declared unsuitable for the type of building the state needs. Governor Donahey, Attorney General Crabbe and State Auditor Tracy constitute the building commission.

To Test Soil For Road Building.

Columbus, June 7.—Arrangements have been made by the state department of highways and public works, Ohio State university and the federal bureau of public roads for a co-operative investigation of soil conditions as affecting road construction in the state. At a conference recently held in Washington preliminary matters to the survey were considered and discussed. The plan is to take samples of soil from about 50 fixed points along the highways. Tests of the bearing power of the soils will be carried on and a general topographic and geological survey of conditions affecting the locations will be made.

OHIO LAD WINS

Easily Defeats 1924 Champion in National Marble Contest.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 7.—Harlin McCoy of Columbus, 1923 national marble champion, administered a most decisive defeat to George Lenox, 14, of Baltimore, new 1924 national champion. The exhibition was staged on the beach here before 15,000 fans, who had just watched the Baltimore boy win a great victory over Tommy Wright of Chicopee, Mass., in the finals of the second annual national tournament. Lenox, after coming through in great shape and upsetting the dope in winning the national title, never had a chance with McCoy, who trimmed him three straight games by scores of 12-1, 12-1 and 11-2.

PROHIBITION TICKET HEADED BY FARIS

Missouri Banker Lands Nomination on First Ballot.

Columbus, June 7.—The Prohibition national convention nominated H. P. Faris of Missouri for president on the first ballot.

Faris, who is a banker, received 82 votes, as against 40 for Rev. A. P. Gouthey of Seattle and 2 for W. F. Barney of New York, who had withdrawn in favor of Faris.

Three delegates from Illinois and four from New York bolted the convention and refused to participate after resolution favoring the abandonment of the party was defeated. The party platform adopted calls for reading of the Bible in all public schools. The Ohio Klan has been advocating this. Other planks follow: Repeal of all laws which make it hard for small parties to find a place on the ballot; condemnation of the "Republican and Democratic parties' method of enforcing prohibition laws; advocating honest, efficient constitutional government; favoring United States entrance into the world court; advocating farm relief legislation; conservation of national resources; passage of laws for the general public as well as for capital and labor, and Americanization of foreigners.

A resolution by Robert A. Patton of Illinois to disband the party and affiliate with the major party which will adopt the program of the Prohibition party was defeated.

HERE AND THERE

Four persons were drowned while bathing in the gulf at Port Arthur, Tex. The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Randall Bonnette, Miss Adele Montague, 17, and Romer Simler, 28.

P. H. Capper, 45, of Glenfield, Pa., telegraph line repair man for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was killed in the Columbus yards when struck by a cut of cars.

Pollyanna Dunkle, 8, was burned to death when fire broke out on a moving float on which she was performing in a pageant in connection with the Shrine convention at Kansas City, Mo.

FICKARDT'S ROUP
AND CHOLERA DROPS
On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville, R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:—
I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die, I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.
A friend of mine told me of Fick-ardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.
I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.
I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.

High-Pressure Boilers
Engineering practice is now making use of pressures in steam boilers that would have been considered out of the question not many years ago. From Berlin comes news of a German boiler designed to generate 15,500 pounds of steam an hour at a pressure of 850-pound gauge. An electric company in the United States has under construction one 2,600-kilowatt and one 4,000-kilowatt turbine designed for steam pressure of 1,200 pounds, and to exhaust into other turbines at from 250 to 350 pounds. A Swedish boiler operating at 900 pounds has been in successful use for about two years.

Briny Was Too Riny
A summer boarder at a small seaside resort took as much interest in the ocean as if he owned a controlling interest in it. He was always talking about "the briny." He was standing on the beach one day when a bather slipped in and almost immediately slipped out. The recreant one was promptly called to account.
"What's the matter? Don't you like the briny? What's wrong with the briny?"
The other pointed to a plenitude of floating rind and replied briefly: "Too watermelony today."

Ship Built on Knoll
People looking at the top of a certain knoll at Oakland, Cal., rub their eyes and take another look, for there stands the good ship Mer Tranquill, which Fred A. Heroux has built. He has injected all the details of a regular, honest-to-goodness seagoing craft, except that the bottom will be an immovable base of concrete. The eye of a true mariner will not be much offended, however, because the concrete will be hidden in four feet of water in a tank surrounding the vessel.

Quick Work
There is a story told about a certain well-known Scotland Yard detective.
A colleague from the country came to see him, and happened to speak slightingly of the alleged smartness of the London pickpocket. Whereupon the Yard man offered to bet the other £10 that he would lose his watch without knowing it before he got to Charing Cross, a matter of a few hundred yards. The country colleague agreed and started out; the London man called to him a pickpocket well-known to the police, and said, pointing to the countryman: "You see that chap? I want you to get me his watch.
I'll give you £5 and see that you don't get into trouble." "Is it straight?"
asked the man. "Sure," said the detective; "you know me." "Oh, well," said the man, "if it's straight—here it is!"

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

HERRICK
DRY AIR SYSTEM
REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Two-Piece Suit for Spring Wear

Tailored Outfit Scheduled to Enjoy Wide Vogue, Writer Says.

Paris spring openings will announce the mode for another season. Certain differences are inevitable—indeed, the time is ripe for some radical departures from the current styles, says a fashion writer in the New York Tribune. This winter found a uniformity in dress among the Parisiennes which was reminiscent of the days of the polka. Individuality, usually the rule at the smart French resorts, was the exception, and there was a startling conformity to certain types of dress and color. Inasmuch as the history of fashion shows that each of its phases ends in a too extended popularity, it would appear that the new mode will differ distinctly from that of the previous spring.

Some of these expected changes are clearly marked at the present moment. The tailored two-piece suit, for instance, is scheduled to enjoy a wide vogue. The return of this mode connotes many changes in neckwear, which is always complimentary to the tailored costume.

Outstanding features of the neckwear for spring include convertible collars which may be spread out or turned over and held closely about the throat with a silk tie, the emphasizing of the V neckline and the use of two tailored silk or linen panels to simulate a waistcoat. Plain and novelty linens and white and pastel organdies are forecasted as the most favored materials.

From the modes at Palm Beach and the Riviera an accurate prediction may be made of the color tendencies for the approaching season. White will be appropriate for both formal frocks and sports wear. The general tone of the latter will be particularly vivid, with special emphasis placed upon bright variations of green and yellow. Jade greens and Chinese bluish-greens will sparkle in rivalry with the imperial yellow of the Manchus.

Informal Daytime Gowns.

For informal daytime wear beige, brown and tan give evidence of a renewed popularity. These same colorings will dominate the spring hostelry, in addition, of course, to the nude hue which has attracted so much attention.

Just one more thing is certain. As far as the silhouette is concerned, the keynote of the new mode will be simplicity. And it will be stressed in the most complex ways.

The dress with dual and occasionally triple personality is the mode of the moment at Paris, and the principal French couturiers have avoided the usual mid-season quiet with numerous interpretations of this capricious and economical style. Each model, instead of being a definite gown for a single definite purpose, is suitable for two, or possibly three, widely different functions. Thus a dressy short-known as the borderland dress. She employs an extremely heavy crepe as thick as broadcloth which is peculiarly adaptable to her unique circular cut on skirt and sleeve.

White crepe with black ornamentation is the favored color combination of this designer, who is now featuring exquisite models for the Riviera and the season in Rome. In a Lanvin interchangeable model the outstanding feature is an elaborate embroidery in black silk which covers the flowing sleeves and ornaments the corners of the overhanging tunic skirt. A narrow foundation of silver cloth is revealed at one side and the hips are girdled with a wide sash.

The sleeve is the pivot on which the afternoon and evening dress swing into each other's position. When the sleeve is long there is little difficulty in effecting the transition, for the long sleeve requires no apology at an afternoon tea. Particularly interesting are the sleeves on this model, which is developed from white crepe with incrustations of gold metal cloth, for these are indicative of an awakened interest in lace. Another effective combination for the same dress is that of black crepe and silver incrustations.

The Sleeveless Dress.

An opposite but equally versatile frock is the sleeveless afternoon dress, a model quite as acceptable for an informal dinner as for a formal afternoon tea. From Lanvin comes a dress of this type with a color ensemble which only she would dare. It is developed in pink crepe georgette over a foundation of silver cloth which in turn is appliqued and embroidered—and this is the Lanvin touch—in black. It is an ideal transition dress.

Vionnet displays her accustomed preference for black as a medium for the borderland dress. There is a reserve about the designs of this couturier suggestive of many things it is not.

The French stage always has been closely associated with the Paris mode, and this winter it is Callot who has been the most prolific contributor to theatrical fashions. Falconette is creating a distinct furor in the principal role of "Charly," a characteristic French comedy.

In three acts she wears five different models, all designed by Callot. There is an elaborately embroidered velvet afternoon dress, developed in hunter's green and turquoise blue and richly ornamented with metal. This is a simple chemise type with wing panels falling from the shoulders at the back. Large embroidered ornaments decorate the front of the bodice and a similar design of embroidery covers the bands at the foot of the skirt.

Velvet and Bands of Fox.

Another of her costumes is the inevitable negligee, in this instance a charming dishabille of pink lace worn with a straightly-cut plisk sacque which in turn is trimmed with a deep band of sable fur.

For the denouement in the third act she wears an exceptionally smart three-piece suit of velvet which has its seven-eighths length coat cut in straight kimono style. Deep border bands of brown fox are an effective trimming.

None of these frocks has limited itself to its particular stage—all have been widely copied and their prototypes are frequently encountered on the boulevards.

Yvonne Printemps, the wife of Sacha Guitry, the dramatic author-actor, has given considerable publicity to crepe de chine bed sheets by using them in the first act of "L'Amour Masque." This clever farce is soon to be brought to America, and it is expected that the Lanvin two-yard-wide pink crepe de chine sheets that are the "piece de resistance" of the play will accompany the fair Yvonne.

Somewhat Hard to Explain.

The Indians of Venezuela have from time immemorial had a yearly fasting season of forty days and so have the Aztecs of Mexico. So, also, it should be remembered, had the ancient Persians. We cannot attribute their adoption of the number of forty to any relationship with Christianity, and there is no evidence that it had any connection with Judaism. Why, then, forty? —Exchange.

BOXING BOUTS

Enthusiastic Crowd Witnessed Fistic
Encounters at State Armory.

Lovers of the manly sport of boxing gathered at the State Armory Friday evening to witness the four bouts staged for the fistic arena.

The crowd was not disappointed, although the performance was tardy in starting. The first bout between Red Jenkins, of this city, and Frank Greeno, of Stoutsville resulted in favor of Greeno, who is a huskily built lad.

The second bout, a four round contest between Knockout Porte, of Portsmouth, and E. Brown, of this city, was a fair example of boxing. The Portsmouth lad was the more scientific of the two and rained blow after blow on his adversary, but failed to knock him out. The decision was given to Porte.

The semi-final of eight rounds between Joe O'Malley, of Columbus, and Al Leever, of Portsmouth, was a strenuous affair. Leever was the favorite of the crowd and the ring-side applauded every move he made. The butting given O'Malley in the third round by Leever with his shoulder was accidental, but it pretty nearly put O'Malley to the bad. No count was taken as it was purely a foul. Leever was given the decision but this did not meet with the favor of the audience, who considered the bout a draw. Leever lost to Patterson in a bout in this city two weeks ago.

The main event of ten rounds which was the drawing card, proved to be not as interesting as the semi-final. This event was between Frankie Susnell, a Portsmouth lad and Soldier Mellow, of Columbus. The latter has appeared in every boxing event pulled off at the Armory and his tactics are well known. Susnell is a clean boxer and has the punch and is quick with it, but his jabs were warded off by Mellow, who is also a clean and clever demonstrator of the art of boxing. There were no knockouts and no scarlet was spilled. The event was decided a draw. The attendance was not up to the performance given two weeks ago, but more enthusiasm prevailed. Ray Mahoney of Columbus, was referee; Karl Hermann and W. J. Graham timekeepers and Meinhart Crites, of this city, and Sam Segal, of Chillicothe, acted as judges. W. R. Pickens Jr. was announcer.

Lessen Fence Bills
With Concrete PostsPractically Permanent if Properly Made and Set.

The use of concrete fence posts is one way of cutting down the tremendous bill which the American farmer has to pay for fences. Some authorities estimate that approximately one billion fence posts are used each year in the United States and that their total value is in the neighborhood of $250,000.

Concrete fence posts when properly made and set are practically permanent, but a great deal of the durability of the fence as a whole is dependent upon the strength of the end posts and corner posts. The main strain of the wire fence, which, to give the best service should be stretched very tight, comes upon these end and corner posts. If these posts are made large enough and are deeply set into firm soil, it may not be necessary to brace them, but should a brace be necessary a good way of providing it is shown in the illustration.

A concrete bar five inches square, reinforced with steel rods is cast, in a length great enough to reach diagonally from the base of the last line post to a point near the top of the corner post, where it fits into a notch provided for it. The strain which comes on the corner post is then transmitted to the base of the line post which is in turn supported by the earth so that it will not break off. Some wires extending from the top of the line post to the base of the corner post and twisted up tightly serve the double purpose of further supporting the line post and of preventing the brace bar from being dislodged.

Cocklebur Serious Weed
Pest in Many Sections

In certain sections the cocklebur is a serious weed pest. Its competition with cultivated crops and its objectionable burs make the cocklebur very undesirable. It is comparatively easy to eradicate if proper attention is given to its control. Although an annual plant, a field infested with the cockleburs must be watched for two or three years if the burs are to be killed out, due to the fact that normally only one of the two seeds in each bur will sprout the first season, the other holding over until the second season.

Hasten Rate of Growth and Maturity of Chicks

The rate of growth and development of chicks can be influenced quite materially by altering their ration. The high-protein feeds, such as meat, tankage and milk, tend to hasten growth and maturity. Accordingly, if pullets are hatched so early that there is danger of their beginning to lay before the molting season passes, the feeds mentioned should be removed from the ration as soon as the chicks reach full growth. On the other hand, a free use of these feeds will help to overcome the handicap of late hatching.

Thinning Plants Is Hard Task for Many

Only a hardened professional or an amateur gardener calloused by long years of experience will thin his plants properly without some hesitation. The pulling up of so many seedlings seems wasteful, but usually from one packet of seeds many more plants than are needed are raised, and a few properly spaced so that they may develop to their full capacity in the long run will give far better returns than three or four times their number too thickly planted.

Failures in Securing a Good Stand of Alfalfa

When you fail to secure a stand of alfalfa, it's best to look for the cause of failure before wasting any more seed. Here are the principal reasons for failure in securing a stand of alfalfa: (1) Sour land, (2) a poorly prepared seed bed, (3) improper seedling, (4) poor seed. The quicker a farmer recognizes the factors which cause failure, the quicker he can correct them and make alfalfa a profitable crop on his farm.

Dairy Cows Profitable
When Given Proper Feed

Dairy cows are not profitable unless fed properly. Ensilage and alfalfa hay are the best cow feeds. The canes, kaffirs, darso, feterita and corn are good row crops for the silo. If alfalfa cannot be grown, cow peas, soy beans or peanuts are leguminous crops to plant for dairy cow feeds.

INSPIRING
CONVENTIONFifty-Seventh Annual Meeting One of the Best in Its History.

East Ringgold Awarded Flag Permanently in Contest—Officers Chosen and Resolutions Adopted—Next Meeting in Presbyterian Church, June 4.

The fifty-seventh annual convention of the Pickaway County Sunday School association was held in the First Methodist Episcopal church in this city Friday, June 6, and was one of the most successful in all its history.

G. P. Hunsicker, of Williamsport, gave his 27th annual report, covering in detail the activities of the past year and was a very comprehensive resume of the accomplishments of the organization in that time.

The report of the treasurer, George F. Grand-Girard, showed a balance on hand, June 5, 1923, $286.55; receipts, $370.80; expenditures, $365.60, leaving a balance on hand, June 5, 1924, of $291.75. This report disclosed the fact that there were 42 schools contributing to the fund.

The following was the program:

The following officers for the ensuing years were elected:

President, Rev. E. D. Paulin; vice president, Rev. F. E. Logee; second vice president, William M. Reid; secretary, George P. Hunsicker; treasurer, George F. Grand-Girard; superintendent Children's division, Mrs. Carrie May; superintendent Young People's division, George McDowell; superintendent Adults division, E. S. Neuding; superintendent Educational department, M. C. Warren; superintendent Administration department, Judge E. A. Brown; superintendent Temperance department, Miss May Reber; superintendent Home department, Mrs. D. C. Rader; superintendent Missionary department, Mrs. E. A. Allen; superintendent Visitation department, Mrs. Catherine Reichelderfer.

The executive committee is: Rev. E. D. Paulin, George F. Grand-Girard, Rev. S. W. Hiles, W. M. Reid, C. C. McCafferty, G. P. Hunsicker, M. C. Warren, Robert Pherson, E. A. Brown, A. A. White, E. S. Neuding, Rev. E. K. Johnson, Rev. F. E. Logee, Herman Reid, O. O. Crawford.

In the flag contest the East Ringgold U. B. Sunday school won first place for number attending, eighty-six being present. This is the third consecutive year for this school and the flag was awarded permanently.

The Christian church, of Five Points was second with 44 pupils attending. Scioto chapel U. B. of Robtown, was third with 39 pupils present.

Hebron M. E. was fourth with 32 pupils attending.

Commercial Point M. E. was fifth with 31 pupils present.

The Sunday school of the Children's Home was sixth with 29 pupils present.

Pherson M. E. school was seventh with 21 pupils present.

The following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, another annual convention is about to close; and

Whereas, the needs of the Kingdom of God have been borne in upon us with tremendous force revealing the need of unity and cooperation, in service among us, therefore be it

Resolved, That we hereby express our appreciation for the hearty cooperation of the Sunday schools throughout the county, that has made possible such large attendance and a great convention.

That we appreciate the efforts and work of our leaders and officers.

That we greatly appreciate the hospitality and entertainment of this local church.

That we also manifest our appreciation of the address by the different speakers and special singing by Rev. Roberts and others.

That we pledge our cooperation to the newly elected officers of this association and that we will endeavor to build up even a greater Sunday school organization in Pickaway county for the glory of God and the salvation of men.

The next convention will be held in the First Presbyterian church in this city, Thursday, June 4, 1925. The state convention will be held in Zanesville, October 7 to 10, 1924.

FEVER OF INQUISITION

Congressional investigation of executive activities began in an orderly enough fashion some months ago. But the senate, upon which we have always looked as the steady old wheel horse of congressional team, evidently heard the distant drums of the approaching campaign, reared up and snorted and off it went, "Hell bent for election."

At every rough spot in the road some already terrified passenger was bumped off the political bandwagon, bag and baggage, often as greatly to the surprise of the drivers as to the victim, when President Coolidge stepped to the center of the road and brought the runaway team to its haunches with the stiffest jerk on the reins the senate has felt for years.

American sense of fair play does not long relish unfair methods by characterless witnesses. Public service will hereafter be listed among extra hazardous occupations with special insurance therefor. A policy might be provided that would insure on a sliding scale of indemnity, a small amount for the mere mention of a name before an investigating committee, double indemnity for total loss of character.

It is the hope of the public that the fever of inquisition is subsiding.

AMUSEMENTS

An entertainment of rare quality is promised when Viola Dana's newest picture for Metro, "The Heart Bandit" comes to the Metropolitan theater starting on Monday. The flapper star is said to make full use of her opportunities for comedy and pathos in this story which tells what happens when a girl bandit accidentally breaks into the home of a kindly old lady and is forced thru many circumstances to stay there.

The situations arising from the unusual association form the basis for many scenes of thrills and comedy, the girl getting into several scrapes that seem impossible of solution until a new element—love enters in.

Milton Sills, the popular leading man of a host of big productions, appears opposite Miss Dana. Others in the cast include Wallace MacDonald, Gertrude Claire, Bertram Grassby and DeWitt Jennings. "The Heart Bandit" was directed by Oscar Apfel and photographed by John John Arnold. Fred Kennedy Myton wrote the story, which was adapted for the screen by Tom J. Hopkins.

OHIO POULTRY DAY.

The annual poultry meeting at the agricultural experiment station, at Wooster, will be held Thursday, June 26, the day before the Wheatfield meeting, so that those who wish may attend both events.

Many poultrymen are finding the research and experimental work of great practical value and come to the station in large numbers to learn of this work at first hand. The attendance at the last annual field meeting was 1000 and the station poultrymen are planning for a much larger number this year.

Dr. M. A. Jull, Washington and Professor E. C. Foreman, Michigan Agricultural college and others will speak. The program will cover the subjects of greatest practical importance to poultry raisers.

Her Preference.

Emily was eating at a restaurant with the family and had finished an order of waffles. She was still hungry and her father asked her if she would have something more—a sandwich, perhaps. She said: "No, I would rather have another set of these than anything else."

TEN MILLIONTH

Ford Automobile Will be Driven From New York to San Francisco.

A new and outstanding achievement in the automobile industry of America was attained in Detroit, Wednesday, June 4, when the ten-million model "T" Ford car left the final assembly in the Highland park plant of the Ford Motor company.

The motor, bearing the number 10,000,000 was completed that morning and reached the car assembly line early that afternoon and was assembled into a touring car, the most popular of all Ford body types.

In celebration of having attained a 10,000,000 production record, the company announces that Ford car No. 10,000,000 will make a coast to coast trip as signifying the nation-wide popularity of the Ford car and its appeal to every class of driver.

The car will be shipped to New York within a day or two and leaving there will be driven across the country to San Francisco. The Lincoln highway has been selected as the official route of travel and stops will be made at most all the towns along the line. Frank Kulick, who years ago attained fame and broke many records as the pilot of Ford racing cars will be at the wheel of the ten-millionth Ford, during the transcontinental trip.

TROUBLESOME WEEDS.

Two weeds, field cress and yellow rocket, are causing some inquiry and concern among the farmers in parts of Ohio this season. The continued rainy weather has favored the growth of these weeds according to Dr. Freda Detmers, assistant botanist at the Ohio Experiment station.

Field cress is an erect, leafy light green plant, often producing five or six branches from one root stalk, having a white thickened tap root and topped by closely set, small white flowers. Yellow rocket is often mistaken for common mustard, which is resembles, altho' it blooms much earlier.

Both weeds belong to the mustard family or plants and are either annuals or biennials, producing seeds the first year or forming a rosette of leaves the first year and seeds the second year.

The simplest method of exterminating these weeds is to mow off the tops before seeds mature. Even in grain fields they can be cut before the grain is tall enough to be caught by the mower. As these weeds are propagated from the seed only, one or two years of thoro work will be sufficient to eradicate them from the farm.

SEPARATE CAMPAIGNS.

At a called meeting of the Circleville Benevolent association last Friday the members met with Captain Sweet and Captain Scott of the Salvation Army, to reconsider the plan for a joint campaign for funds.

It was mutually agreed that each organization should conduct its own campaign and the plan for a joint campaign be given up. Therefore, the Benevolent association has set the date for their campaign June 25, 26 and 27. The funds of the association are very low. We hope the citizens of the community will be ready to subscribe freely when the solicitors come to see you.

ETHYL GAS USED BY SPEEDWAY WINNERS

One of the interesting developments brought at the Indianapolis motor race was the fact that Ethyl gasoline, the new motor fuel being developed by the general motor corporation was used by the winner of first, second and third place. It was also used by nine other drivers who finished well up in this classic.

Ethyl gasoline is now being introduced in Circleville by the Circleville Oil company, who have been appointed exclusive representatives here and local motorists have been evincing lively interest in trying out the new fuel.

JAMES LOGAN

MINGO CHIEF

Interesting Story Recorded by Two of Ohio's Great Historians.

Famous Indian Made This County a Place of Great Historic Interest

Pickaway is a Corruption of this Spelling of the Indian Name Piqua.

In the history of Ohio, written by Emilius O. Randall and his colabarator, Daniel J. Ryan, the history of Logan, the famous Mingo chief and his family is given more than ordinary mention. The interest in this famous old Indian chief that made this city and county an historical spot, and the speech delivered under the now famous elm immortal, is likened by some historians to the famous dedicatory speech delivered by Lincoln at Gettysburg.

The father of James Logan, the Mingo chief, says the historian, was Shikellamus, according to the Draper manuscripts, found in English historical archives. Shikellamus was one of the most remarkable men of his race, born in Montreal, Canada, of French parentage, and, when a child was made a captive and adopted into the Wolf clan of Oneida tribe. He married a woman of the Cayuga nation and became an early convert in 1742 to the Moravian denomination of Christians. He was previously, as a child, baptised in the Catholic faith by a priest, but he repudiated his Catholic allegiance.

Logan's father was a personal friend of James Logan, secretary to William Penn, governor of the province of Pennsylvania. Shikellamus named all his children after this friend. Hence the name, James Logan, given Logan, the famous Mingo chief. James Logan was the eldest son; besides him were three sons and three sisters. The children of this famous Onieda Indian chief, (who was not an Indian at all) were Tahgahjute (Indian description of a man, with eyelashes sticking out as if looking thru or over something, spying and shrewd, this was our Logan.

The Delaware Indians called Logan Tachnechdorus, which is Indian for "The branching out of the forest. One sister, married a Frenchman named Cajados. She died in 1731. Another sister, Conestoga, fell in 1763, a sacrifice to the wild ferocity of the Paxton rioters, and his favorite sister, Mrs. John Gibson, was killed in the Baker cabin massacre at the mouth of the Captina. The loss of this sister broke up Logan's home and embittered him towards the whites. Logan's sister, Mrs. Gibson, with a child strapped across her back left Logan's home to go to the Baker cabin to secure milk for her babe. In the cabin were three drunken men and one of these unbeknown to her, had killed her brother, John Petty Logan, a few moments before she entered. The murder of her brother was John Sappington and this assassin struck the poor woman who piteously begged mercy for her babe, telling him, it was kin to the whites. The dying plea of Logan's sister touched the last remaining spark of humanity left in the breast of the assassin and he cut the strap that bound the little one to the mother's back. The child was saved and was taken back to its father at Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

"Unhappy" Jake Logan, a brother, was killed in a Catawba Indian tribe warfare. Logan had a younger brother, Sayughtowa, who died in Pennsylvania. John Petty Logan, another brother, who was also known by the Indian name of Sagagegby, was a fearless hunter and lived with Chief Logan and his sister, Mrs. Gibson.

Chief Logan's father died at Shamokin, Pennsylvania, and was buried by the Moravians. His mother lived up to 1774 in the same state. Logan came with his brothers to Mingo town from his home in Pennsylvania in 1770 and remained there until 1773 when he removed to the mouth of Yellow creek now Yellow-bud, where he established a hunting camp. In the early part of 1774, he transferred his dwelling to old Chillicothe, (Westfall) on the west bank of the Scioto in what is now known as Darby plains. In his Chillicothe cabin he was not distant from his people, for higher up on the same river at the fork of the Scioto and the Darby, was the present site of Circleville. Darby was originally known as Olentangy, and the present Olentangy was known in early days as the Walhonding.

Following the death of his father, Logan was reared by the grand council of Onadagas to the dignity of Sachem or chief of the Samokin Indians, and became one of the ten Sachems of the Cayugas, his mother's tribe, and was later elected chief of the Mingoes. Logan spoke English, but could not write the language.

Logan was twice married. His first wife was a Cayuga Indian woman, whom he married in Pennsylvania. She bore him several children and these following the death of the chief's wife, were placed in the hands of his aunt, living among the Conestoga Indians. Logan's second wife was a Shawnee squaw, a woman of unusual intelligence, who spoke English.

In Logan's great speech he makes mention of his children. By this, the historian, Randall, says Logan meant the people of his tribe. It is known that Logan's brother and sister were killed in the Greathouse massacre at Baker's cabin, but his children had been sent away to the cabin of an aunt, among the Conestoga tribe.

It is well known that the name of this county is of Indian origin. It is a corruption of the spelling of Piqua, which is Indian for a man risen from the ashes. Historical Indian mythology is given credit for the following. At one time the Shawnee tribe was all seated around a large fire, which having barely burnt down when a great puffing and blowing was suddenly observed among the embers, when behold, a man of majestic form and godlike mien issued forth from the ashes.

Alfred Lee, secretary to Governor Hayes and later consul-general to Germany, said of Logan's address: "Taken in connection with the circumstances, which are said to have inspired it this is one of the most pathetic deliverances in all literature. In brevity, simplicity and directness of appeal, as well as in the immortality of its thoughts, it bears a striking resemblance to Abraham Lincoln's dedicatory address at Gettysburg."

Young American Women Wear Longer Necklaces

A peculiar change has been made in the length of necklaces. When Princess Mary was married the British royal family was economizing, and short neck strings became the fashion. They are trying to any but the young and slender, and recently American women, especially those that are neither young nor slender, have been breaking away and taking to longer and longer strings, dangling and drooping effects, stunning against gowns of long and simple lines in one color. They seem to lend height and grace, and they suggest an abandonment to luxury, and hence are alluring. Colored stones are appearing in this prodigal form. Browns and grays are being pressed into service, in addition to the blue whites. And then there are the pale green jades, and white jades, and green shot with white, very precious. These come from China, where real art and honest work are still lavished on the carving and mounting of gems. China is also the most important producer of rock crystal, and her adepts at carving it get wonderful results. And crystal is being sought more and more for bead strings.

We have not yet, however, cultivated to any great extent two points of interest in jade that appeal to the cultured Chinaman. One is its sound when struck. A large piece of good jade has a peculiar ring, which is music to the cultivated Chinese ear and attests the quality of the possession. And in addition the real jade fancier has a curiously cultivated tactile sense through which he derives pleasure from running his fingers over a jade ornament. A dealer with a shop will have a few friends who enjoy his jades in this manner, sitting for a spare hour and fingering the precious substance. The dealer is willing, for his pieces are thus given a polish the carver cannot impart. It seems a queer sort of sport, hardly more exciting than Mah Jongg—and yet in this exercise the Chinaman is esthetic in the Greek sense.

In Fact, Generally.
A scientist says that cholera germs look like a comma. Possibly, but when they get into a man's system they are apt to put the final period to his existence.

Fundamentals of Better Cowpeas

Wide Margin in Price Paid to Growers and That Given by Consumers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
There is usually a wide margin between the average price received by growers of cowpeas and the price paid by consuming farmers. Much of this margin is for services in the channel of trade that can be rendered more economically by the grower on the farm says J. E. Barr, investigator in marketing seeds, who has recently concluded for the United States Department of Agriculture an investigation of methods of marketing cowpeas. Any effort on the part of growers to improve the quality of their cowpeas will inevitably bring them larger returns, Mr. Barr says.

Better Marketing.
The fundamentals of better marketing of cowpeas are better preparation for market and care in determining the time of marketing and in selecting the agency through which the crop is sold. Better preparation for market includes re-cleaning, after threshing or hulling, so as to remove all foreign matter and light-weight and broken seeds; and the use of sound sacks, securely tied or sewed. The services of re-cleaning and sacking necessarily carry a cost with them, but by performing these services on the farm the grower will receive an increased price for his cowpeas.

Unstable markets for cowpeas are found to be due largely to the variation in demand and uncertainty of production in any section from year to year. The demand for cowpeas is limited and is affected by the buying power of the farmer, the quality of the crop for planting purposes and the comparative price and supply of seed of other crops, notably soy beans and velvet beans, which compete in the crop rotation. Geographical preference for varieties is also an important factor in the commercial distribution of cowpeas.

Selling Price Varies.
The selling price of cowpeas varies with the commercial supply, the quality for seed, the variety, and the nearness to planting date. The price paid growers for cowpeas is almost invariably higher as the planting season approaches. Some varieties sell at a premium of 25 to 50 per cent over the low-est priced variety, while "mixed" varieties sell at a discount of 10 to 25 per cent under straight varieties. Growers should recognize this fact, says Mr. Barr, and plant only pure seed of known varieties if it is intended to market the seed crop.

The results of Mr. Barr's investigation are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 1308, "Marketing the Cowpea Seed Crop," copies of which may be obtained free upon request to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Four principal agencies through which growers may market their cowpeas are (1) neighboring farmers; (2) local shippers; (3) distant seedsmen or dealers; (4) through farm paper advertising direct to other farmers. The advantages and disadvantages of each of these methods are presented in the bulletin, so that the grower may be guided in choosing the agency which will return him the largest net amount for his product.

Many More Elemental Eggs Than Any Hen Can Develop

A pullet at maturity has a certain number of elemental eggs which may be developed. Counts at the Maine experiment station show from 1,600 to 3,500. More recent investigations show even greater numbers. There are always a great many more elemental eggs than any hen is capable of developing.

The rapidity with which eggs are developed will depend upon the hen's inherited ability to produce eggs and upon the feed and management of the flock.

Profits from the flock will depend upon securing as many eggs as possible during the first couple of years of each hen's life. In addition to proper housing and feeding we must:
1. Breed from the best layers.
2. Hatch chicks early so that pullets will be ready for winter egg production.
3. Break broody hens as soon as possible and thus avoid long resting periods.

Farmer Should Work Hard to Keep Down All Weeds

This is the season of the year when the farmer should work hard to keep down weeds. They are more easily killed now than later and the crops will have a better opportunity to keep the weeds subdued. Just before harvest time is on in full blast the farmer usually has a little breathing time in which this work can be done before the weeds have time to develop size sufficient to resist ordinary treatment.

Rape Makes Excellent Pasture for Swine Herd

Rape makes very good hog pasture. Sow any time up to midsummer. Rape will be ready for pasture six to eight weeks after it is seeded. It may be sown alone or with any grain crop as desired. The grain may be fed off with the rape or it may be harvested and the rape pastured later as desired. Sow four to five pounds per acre.

Tiny Republic Admitted to United States in '34

Indian Stream republic existed within the present boundaries of the United States. Charles Parker of River Falls, Wis., a former lieutenant governor of the state, was a boy in the tiny domain ruled by his father. The republic endured more than a decade, successfully defying both the United States and Great Britain—an independent nation, with politicians, militia, civil rights and taxes.

In 1783, when Great Britain and the thirteen colonies signed the treaty that created a new nation, they forgot a little valley tucked away in the New Hampshire hills. In 1820 a handful of settlers in the valley woke up to the fact that they were in no man's land. They were not Americans. They were not Canadians. Then Canada interpreted the treaty of 1783 to include the territory in British domain. America promptly said it belonged to her. Then along came Luther Parker, adventurer and trader, who organized the settlers and set up a government of which he naturally was elected head. The little valley government at once drew the fire of both Canada and the United States.

Matters came to a head in 1834 when a group of Canadian sympathizers ambushed Parker one night and carried him across the border. The trumped up charge against him was soon dismissed and Parker returned to Indian Stream. He circulated petitions asking admission into the state of New Hampshire on behalf of the republic. Parker went westward, and was the first white settler where Milwaukee now stands.—Detroit News.

Deadly Foe of Tarantula.
The tarantula killer is a species of wasp whose female is the most effective foe of the tarantula. It alights on the spider's back and penetrates its body with a sting. In a few seconds the tarantula is dead. The wasp then deposits an egg in the body and buries it in the ground. The egg changes into a grub which nourishes itself upon the carcass of the tarantula.

The final feminine expedient of a woman is a flood of tears.

It does not require much material for a man to make a fool of himself.

When you pick your friends be careful that they are not the kind that will pick you.

There would be no need of higher educational institutions if we were all as smart as we think we are.

If the bootlegging business is good today it is a sure sign the undertaking business will flourish tomorrow.

Summer Food Protection

It is economy as well as a guard to better summer health to protect your food from deteriorating during the warm weather by keeping it in a properly constructed Refrigerator.

The Leonard is so made from materials of the highest quality that the ice consumption is held at a minimum. At the same time a perfect circulation of ice cold air keeps every part of the refrigerator sweet and clean and at a temperature sufficiently cold to keep food from spoiling.

The amount you save in ice and food during one season will go a long ways toward paying for a Leonard Refrigerator.

MACK PARRETT

Pays to Be Straight.
There's a satisfaction in living up to our obligations. Only the man who consistently meets his bills can look the world in the face without either feeling shame or acting the lie. It takes a fellow step with a firmer tread when he knows that he has done his best and that no one can call him a lagger or point toward him the finger of scorn. Sometimes he may feel burdened by this constant living up to obligations when others don't, but the load will soon become one of satisfaction as conscience declares approval. You can't do better than live up to your sense of obligation.—Grit.

Real Color of Gold
Few persons are familiar with the real color of gold, because it is seldom seen except when heavily alloyed, a state in which it is much redder than when it is pure. The purest gold ever made were the $50 pieces which were once in common use in California. Their coinage was abandoned because the loss by abrasion was so great and because their interior could be bored out and filled with lead. They were octagonal in shape and were the most valuable coins ever minted and circulated. All gold is not alike when refined. Australian gold is distinctly redder than that taken in California. Moreover, placer gold is more yellow than that which is taken from quartz. This is one of the mysteries of metallurgy, because the gold in placers comes from that which is in quartz. The gold in the Ural mountains is the reddest in the world.

NEW JERSEY FARM ONCE KING'S HOME

Joseph Bonaparte, Ex-Ruler of Spain, Refugee There.

A few citizens of the United States at one time had the rare privilege of neighboring with a king, for Joseph Bonaparte, after wearing the crown of Spain and Naples, spent the remainder of his life as a country gentleman on his magnificent estate near Bordentown, N. J., writes Irene Cowan Tappert in Country Life.

What a picturesque figure, this Frenchman, brother to the great Corsican, Napoleon! Once playing a leading part in a brilliant world drama, later we find him going about the commonplace duties of a landholder, clad in a favorite old tramping suit and a faded hat. Suave and courteous, he won universal respect and admiration.

The idea of selecting New Jersey as a place of residence originally came from Napoleon while he was still emperor of France. On one occasion, in the presence of Joseph and several of his officers, he unrolled a map of the United States and indicated a spot half way between New York and Philadelphia, saying:

"If I am ever forced to fly to America, I shall settle there—where I can receive the earliest intelligence from France by ships arriving at either port."

Later, when preparing for his escape, Joseph sent a final message to his brother urging him to go in his stead and seek refuge in the quiet spot he had previously selected, which offer, as may be imagined, was immediately declined.

Joseph's escape to America as narrated by his secretary, Mallard, in "Bonaparte's Park and the Murals," tells us that the vessel selected for the journey was a small, common-looking brig, the Commerce, weighing 200 tons, and loaded with a cargo of Bordeaux wines.

A skillful captain, Messervy, a Swede, was in command of the Commerce. Three times the vessel was stopped on the high seas and searched by English frigates who were on the lookout for the de-throned emperor, but so carefully had the papers and the passports been prepared that even the captain did not know the identity of his distinguished passengers until after the vessel had landed. On the following day, in blazing headlines, Messervy read all about the voyage and the successful escape of a former crowned head of Europe.

The city of Philadelphia became the first place of residence for Count de Surville, which was the former king's title in this country, and he first occupied a house on Ninth street, later renting one of the ten pretentious houses of the Girard trust fund in Girard row, located on Chestnut street below Twelfth. He lived in apparent comfort for the space of several years.

Soon after his arrival in America Joseph had applied to the legislature of New Jersey for permission to hold real estate without becoming naturalized. Appreciating his peculiar position, the legislature, after due consideration, complied with his request.

The count then purchased some land. His real estate consisted of ten farms on the banks of Crosswicks creek, extending up to the opposite village of Groverville, and a park of about 1,000 acres. This park, known as Bonaparte's park, was situated on an elevated plateau near Bordentown.

Offered Odd Security

Roy Chapman Andrews, of the Asiatic expedition in China, overdrew the expedition's account with the American Banking company at Peking. When the bank asked for more security Andrews offered two dinosaur eggs 10,000,000 years old. The banker refused to consider the eggs as collateral, and it was necessary to sell the American-made automobiles, which brought half the original cost despite the fact that they had traveled 6,000 miles over the camel trails of northern China.

STATEMENT

Of Hugh Huntington, Manager of Candidacy of James A. White.

In announcing that he had accepted the responsibility of "campaign manager for James A. White, candidate for Republican nomination for Governor Hugh Huntington, Columbus attorney made this statement:

"The progress of events in the last ten days have made distinctly for the strengthening of the James A. White candidacy for the Republican nomination of governor of Ohio. Two men proposed by the organization as candidates have definitely taken themselves out of the running. Both are men of more than usual sagacity. There is reason to believe that no other compromise candidates will be proposed. Assurance of support for Mr. White is coming in from all quarters.

"The reason for these things is not far to seek. At the coming election there are to be chosen 22 members of congress, 167 members to the state legislature and innumerable county officials. A majority of the present Republican members of congress appreciate the assistance of Mr. White in attaining their present seats. They want this support again. The outstanding strong Republican majority in the last three state legislatures was due as a majority of the men composing it recognize, to the political sagacity and the outstanding talent for organization possessed by Mr. White. These men are responsible for the slogan employed at White headquarters — "We will win with White."

"The factors which are rapidly advancing the White candidacy are also making for party harmony. It is becoming daily more apparent that only a candidate committed to law enforcement can expect popular suffrage and if the so-called leaders cannot name their own candidate, they must get behind the candidate with the best prospects for success.

"It is an interesting fact that a majority of the Democratic workers are proceeding on the basis that Mr. White will be their opponent in November."

Mr. Huntington will spend a considerable portion of his time at the White headquarters which have been opened in the Rowlands building at Third and Broad streets.

Mr. Huntington successfully managed the charter campaign in Columbus in 1914. In 1916, he was the Republican nominee for congress in the Twelfth district. In 1917, he represented the Woman's Suffrage party of Ohio in defending the Reynolds act before the supreme court. In 1922, he was president of the Franklin County Bar association and is now president of the Coolidge club of Columbus.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

Sues For Divorce

Mary L. Buchanan has filed a suit in common pleas court for divorce from Wilson Buchanan to whom she was married May 14, 1895. They are the parents of two sons, one of whom has attained his majority. She charges her husband with gross neglect and failure to provide for the past three years.

She also charges him with extreme cruelty and alleges that knowing she is opposed to the use of tobacco, he kept up smoking in her presence, which threw her into a fit of violent coughing and caused shortness of the breath.

The plaintiff asks for the custody of their son, Palmer, and also her household goods and chattels together with a promissory note and reasonable alimony and that he be enjoined from disposing of any of his property. A temporary injunction was allowed by Judge Clarence Curtin. C. A. Weldon represents the plaintiff.
